22 CRIM 651

COUNT ONE

(Computer Fraud - Causing Damage to a Protected Computer)

The Grand Jury charges:

OVERVIEW

1. In or about May 2022, FOSTER COOLEY, the defendant, a resident of Arizona, perpetrated a scheme (the "Scheme") to conduct cyber intrusions and steal money from a New York-based company that owns and operates hair salons in New York City, New Jersey, Colorado, and elsewhere ("Victim-1"). COOLEY stole money from Victim-1 by obtaining unauthorized access to Victim-1's account with Victim-1's point-of-sale provider (the "Victim-1 POS Account") and diverting credit card payments from Victim-1's bank accounts to bank accounts controlled by COOLEY and others.

2. FOSTER COOLEY, the defendant, obtained unauthorized access to the Victim-1 POS Account by obtaining usernames and passwords of Victim-1's employees. Those credentials were stolen using the "Redline Stealer," which is a type of malicious software or malware that secretly steals, among other things, a victim's usernames, passwords, and credit card information that have been saved in the victim's internet browser.

3. After FOSTER COOLEY, the defendant, successfully gained unauthorized access to the Victim-1 POS Account, COOLEY changed the bank accounts designated to receive credit card payments from Victim-1's hair salons to bank accounts controlled by COOLEY and others. As a result, credit card payments from Victim-1's hair salons were fraudulently diverted to COOLEY.

4. In or about May 2022, for a period of approximately two weeks until the Scheme was discovered by Victim-1, more than $430,000 in customer payments from Victim-1's hair salons, including multiple salons located in the Southern District of New York, were fraudulently diverted to bank accounts controlled by FOSTER COOLEY, the defendant, and others.

access to the Victim-1 POS Account and modified the bank accounts designated to receive credit card payments from Victim-1's customers, which impaired the integrity of the Victim-1 POS Account, and caused over $5,000 in loss.
